The program is designed to promote and recognize a licensed moving company's commitment to operate beyond the minimum industry standards required by law and to achieve the highest levels of ethics, customer service and consumer satisfaction.

To qualify, a moving company must comply with all State laws. A member moving company must also meet and maintain minimum quality standards.

NJWMA files complaints on illegal moving companies. We respond to credible consumer complaints against our members and advise consumers of the mover's legal liability.

All movers in good standing receive free advertising on our exclusive website that promotes licensed movers to consumers. Consumers can search our online directory for a mover and call movers directly. Members can also sign up for website banners to expand advertising to other counties.
